

XanGo's Brand Evolution From Obscure Purple Fruit to Billion Dollar Brand

From bringing the mangosteen out of obscurity in Southeast Asia to global mass distribution, category creator XanGo, LLC is the first company to market a premium mangosteen beverage, XanGo[®] Juice.

In 2002, privately owned global nutrition company XanGo started with 14 employees in the United States and today operates in more than 20 countries and territories with approximately 750 employees. One million distributors participate in XanGo's global network, including operations in the United States, Mexico, Canada, Malaysia, Germany, Australia, Japan and other international markets.

In the fall of 2007 XanGo continued its mangosteen category domination by releasing XALO[™] in select European markets. This new beverage fuses aloe, mangosteen, grape seed and green tea to offer pure and nourishing benefits in a complete and functional beverage. XanGo then expanded its roster of premium, functional products with the introduction of the XANGO 3SIXTY5[™] whole food nutrition multi-vitamin brand in May 2008. Utilizing chelated technology, driving increased absorption, and combining the mangosteen rind with botanical phytonutrients from 12 fruits and 12 vegetables, the 3SIXTY5 whole food formula provides a complete blend of vitamins, minerals, essential fatty acids and CoQ10 to fully complement a daily dose of globally renowned XanGo[®] Juice.

XanGo's latest product innovation is the introduction of Glimpse[™] Intuitive Skin Care, launched in November 2008. This innovative personal care brand features three exclusive, xanthone-rich ingredients from the mangosteen delivered through a proprietary BioActive X³ Complex[™] that uses toxin-free ingredients and green chemistry technology. Glimpse is available in two product systems – one providing nutrition for normal to dry skin and the other designed for normal to combination skin.

As the category leader, XanGo continues to be the forerunner with other initiatives such as:

- Mangosteen research – With scientific partners that include Northridge, Calif.-based Medicus Research and Weber State University, XanGo is spearheading the scientific exploration of the whole mangosteen fruit through a tiered approach based on safety, standardization and efficacy. In a study published in the June 2007 issue of the Journal of Separation Science and in accordance with AOAC protocol, researchers established a standard scientific method for testing and measuring the nutrient-rich xanthones found in the mangosteen. XanGo also released preliminary results from a separate bioavailability study of xanthones and XanGo Juice that indicated usage of the whole mangosteen fruit as a delivery vehicle leads to high xanthone absorption. This pre-clinical trial showed that unnaturally elevated levels of xanthone consumption through extracts were shown to result in decreased absorption efficiency.
